

About Us

The International Confederation of Contamination Control Societies (ICCCS) is a non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of the field of Contamination Control, particularly in the areas of cleanrooms and controlled environments. ICCCS was founded in 1972 in Switzerland during an inaugural symposium.

Membership is available to recognized contamination control societies; only one society may be granted Member status per country. The ICCCS is governed by an Executive Board and a Council of Delegates.

Exceptional ICCCS Member Benefits

✓ Network with contamination control society leaders and experts

Become part of an international community where you can actively participate in the exchange of the latest information on contamination control to help your members advance in their careers. ICCCS events such as the biennial technical symposium and Council of Delegates meetings offer the perfect environment to discuss not only technical topics, but issues that impact your society, industry, and membership. Participate in one of the ICCCS Committees to help shape the future of contamination control.

Add your country to the impressive list of ICCCS Members

Austria

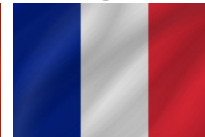

Belgium

Brazil

China

France

Germany

India

Ireland

Italy

Japan

Korea

Netherlands

Nordic Countries: Denmark Finland Norway Sweden

Romania

Russia

Switzerland

Turkey

Scotland (UK)

United States

✓ ISO Standardization

Our strong liaison role with ISO/TC 209 and other standardization bodies provides many opportunities for your society to contribute to the ongoing definition of cleanroom standardization that impacts your Members. Participation through Membership provides greater knowledge and understanding of current procedures and standards.

✓ Education

Through the ICCCS Education Committee (IEC), Member societies can internationally accredit their current cleanroom courses, develop accredited courses based on ICCCS course principles or request assistance from the IEC for presentation of informative seminars or technical courses.

✓ Practical Information

The biennial (held in even numbered years) ICCCS Symposium has a longstanding history of providing breakthrough technical papers on leading contamination control research. Your active participation in ICCCS creates a global exchange of information that can lead to practical solutions to issues faced by your society's members.

Apply Now

Beginning the application process is simple... complete the form on the reverse side and forward to the ICCCS Secretary at secretary@icccs.net.

Visit the ICCCS website at www.icccs.net to learn more about the key role of ICCCS, our Member organizations, the next Symposium and international cleanroom training accreditation.

Please contact secretary@icccs.net by email with the following details to begin your application, or complete this form, scan and send to secretary@icccs.net.

Country (or combination of countries) represented

Full name of organization(s) applying for membership

Initials of organization(s) if known by initials or acronym

Website(s)

Member dues are a modest €550 per year to support the work of the ICCCS, payable after approval of application. The Secretary will contact you after your application is received with more details.

Join the International Confederation of Contamination Control Societies

Access exceptional Member benefits to advance your organization's role in Contamination Control:

- ✓ Networking
- ✓ ISO Standardization
- ✓ Practical Knowledge
- ✓ Accredited Education
- ✓ Expert Support

International Confederation of Contamination Control Societies
www.icccs.net
secretary@icccs.net